

Certification for food producers.

Safe and sustainable production.

Industry, trade, and consumers are today extremely conscious of food safety and increasingly demand high quality. But verifying the safe processes and products of agricultural businesses is difficult due to their varied and often complex production methods. We are one of the world's leading auditing and certification organizations. Take advantage of our expertise to help you document your services according to international quality standards.

Certification as evidence of your trustworthiness.

... minimize risk in connection with food safety

... establish trust and transparency for all stakeholders including authorities

... enjoy a competitive advantage and a better and easier access to market

... identify opportunities to increase profitability by optimizing your production processes

... provide greater consistency in quality

... highlight the sustainability of your production and respect for the use of natural resources

... make your company future proof
