

Moving on up with high-quality training.

John played with cranes from an early age. Column cranes, cable cranes, stacking cranes, tower cranes, truck cranes – as soon as he could move loads with them, there was no getting him away from the constructions.

THE DREAM

The fascination for cranes never let go of him and so his dream job was soon decided: John wanted to become a crane operator, but of course, you won't do that overnight, because every technical job requires a certain amount of training. Especially when the job involves tasks as responsible as those of a crane operator. So John started at the very bottom of the construction site and kept looking up at the men who were maneuvering components weighing tons in the cab of their machines with centimeter precision. He would be sitting there one day, he was sure of that.

THE SOLUTION

After two years of good work, John was able to convince his boss to enable him to train as a crane operator. John attended TÜV Rheinland Academy, where he was supported by experienced professionals in theory and practice who know exactly what is important in the crane operator's job.

During his training, John built up a wealth of expertise and practical experience so that he could confidently take the final examination. The independent examiners from PersCert TÜV take a very close look here. But such a thorough examination has its advantages: If you pass, you have an internationally recognized certificate in your hands, with which you can prove your competence anywhere in the world without a doubt.

John was correspondingly delighted to receive his certificate after a flawless examination. He had shown everyone what he was capable of, and now this achievement had also been officially confirmed to him.

YOUR BENEFITS

In global business, personnel certifications make skills transparent and comparable. They enable consistent standards in rapid technical progress, and ensure constant quality. As an experienced, independent and recognized personnel certification body, PersCert TÜV meets internationally recognized standards for assessing technical and professional skills.

SUMMARY

In addition to his specialist skills, John has also gained a great deal of confidence through his training and subsequent certification. Consequently, he is now often asked for advice by colleagues. And the best part is that with the help of PersCert TÜV, John managed to make his dream come true.

And he is not the only one.
